

My Deeply-Held Religious Convictions

April 2, 2015

Dedicated to Indiana's new Religious Freedom Restoration Act prevent me from upholding, condoning, or

tacitly tolerating
any form of
assholery whatsoever,
in any way, shape,
or form.
Therefore, as a Hoosier professing these deeply-held
religious convictions,
I hereby declare that I will
in no way
tolerate,
serve,
or pander to any type of asshole
whatsoever,
under any circumstances,
while I reside
in the State of Indiana;
but will deliberately discriminate against any and all
assholes
I come into contact with!
No exceptions!
(And no,
no exception
for you,
Indiana
Governor Pence—
or for any member of the Indiana
General Assembly

who made
this legal atrocity
the law of the Hoosier land.)

George Fish is a socialist writer living in Indianapolis. This poem first appeared on his blog.